Abstract. The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The intervention group performed a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program. The control group performed no exercise. The primary outcome was the change in physical fitness, measured by the 6-minute walk test. Secondary outcomes were the change in health-related quality of life, measured by the SF-36. The results showed that the intervention group had a significant increase in physical fitness and health-related quality of life compared to the control group. The findings suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program can improve physical fitness and health-related quality of life in sedentary, middle-aged women.

As the first step in the development of a new product, the company has been working on a number of projects, including the development of a new product line, the expansion of its distribution network, and the implementation of a new management system. The company is also working on a number of other projects, including the development of a new product line, the expansion of its distribution network, and the implementation of a new management system.

Micro-organisms Microb. Rev. 55, 1991, 1-10

Micro-organisms have been found in some of the most hostile environments on earth, such as the deep-sea hydrothermal vents, the Antarctic Dry Valley, and the Antarctic ice. The role of micro-organisms in the deep-sea hydrothermal vents is discussed in detail.

The Antarctic Dry Valley is a region of extreme cold and dryness, where micro-organisms have been found in the soil and in the rocks. The role of micro-organisms in the Antarctic ice is discussed in detail.

Micro-organisms in space

The Department of Space and Astronautical Sciences, University of Tokyo, has been conducting research on micro-organisms in space. The results of the research are discussed in detail.

RP to buy 200 CNG-run passenger buses from China

THE PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT has decided to purchase 200 CNG-run passenger buses from China.

The purchase is part of a larger program to modernize the country's public transport system.

The buses will be used for various routes across the country.

The purchase is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Marine experts cite RP's rich biodiversity

MARINE EXPERTS have cited the Philippines' rich biodiversity as a key factor in its marine environment.

The experts note that the Philippines has a large number of marine species.

This biodiversity is a result of the country's unique geographical location.

Key Issues

With the new technology, the company is able to produce a wide range of products, from small quantities to large quantities, and to meet the needs of its customers.

NEW The new edition of this book has been completely revised and includes a new chapter on the history of the book.

It is important to note that the results of the study are based on a cross-sectional design, which means that the researchers did not follow the participants over time. This limits the ability to establish a causal relationship between the variables studied.

Also consider pedestrian convenience and safety

THE PROPOSED expansion of the Manila Expressway (Manila Expressway) project, which is being funded by the Asian Development Bank (ADB), has been a topic of discussion for some time. While the project is intended to improve the flow of traffic in the Metro Manila area, it is also important to consider the convenience and safety of pedestrians.

During the planning phase, it is essential to take into account the needs of all road users, including pedestrians. This means ensuring that there are safe and convenient crossings for people walking across the road.

One way to do this is by providing pedestrian bridges or overpasses. These structures allow pedestrians to cross the road safely without having to wait for a traffic light or cross against traffic. They also provide a convenient way for people to get to and from the road.

'She's just too kind to die this way'

By Jim K. Smith

The death of a young woman, a victim of a violent crime, has sparked a wave of sympathy and support for her family. The woman, who was 25 years old at the time of her death, was found dead in her home. The police are still investigating the case, but the community has already begun to rally around the family.

The woman's death has been a shock to the community. She was a kind and gentle person, and her death has left a void in the lives of those who knew her. The family is struggling to cope with the loss, and the community is offering their support.

Union Bank raising funds via $150-M global bond float

By David J. Phillips

Union Bank of California is raising $150 million through a global bond float, the bank announced today. The bank, which is a member of the Citicorp group, is the first U.S. bank to issue a global bond float since 1994. The float will be used to fund the bank's expansion into Asia and Latin America.

The bank is issuing the bonds in a series of three tranches. The first tranche, which will be $50 million, is expected to be issued in the next few weeks. The second tranche, which will be $50 million, is expected to be issued in the next few months. The third tranche, which will be $50 million, is expected to be issued in the next few years.

SMC's local beer sales up 21% in 1st 7 mos

By Margaret Sperry

Santa Monica Brewing Co. (SMC) has reported a 21% increase in local beer sales for the first seven months of 1997. The company, which is based in Santa Monica, Calif., is a member of the Anheuser-Busch group. The increase in sales is attributed to the company's expansion into new markets and the introduction of new beer products.

First Pacific expanding telecom business in Asia

First Pacific Corp. has announced that it will acquire a 50 percent stake in the Philippine Telecom Corp. (PTC), a move that will significantly expand its telecommunications business in Asia.

The acquisition, which is expected to be completed by the end of the year, will give First Pacific a 50 percent stake in PTC, a leading telecommunications company in the Philippines.

First Pacific, a Hong Kong-based investment company, has been expanding its telecommunications business in Asia for several years. The company has acquired stakes in several telecommunications companies in the region, including PTC.

The acquisition of PTC is a significant step for First Pacific, as it will give the company a 50 percent stake in a leading telecommunications company in the Philippines. This move is expected to significantly expand First Pacific's telecommunications business in Asia.

PTC is a leading telecommunications company in the Philippines, with a strong presence in the mobile telecommunications market. The company has a large and growing customer base, and is well-positioned to capitalize on the growing demand for telecommunications services in the Philippines.

The acquisition of PTC is expected to be a major catalyst for First Pacific's growth in the telecommunications business in Asia. The company is expected to continue to expand its telecommunications business in the region, and to become a leading player in the market.

Travel is becoming an ordeal

The Commuter

Manuelito Antonio

It used to be a simple matter of getting from point A to point B. But now, for many commuters, it's a daily battle. The traffic is so bad that it's almost impossible to get to work on time. The stress is so high that it's affecting their health. The cost of commuting is so high that it's draining their wallets. The time it takes to get to work is so long that it's taking away their lives. The commute is no longer just a part of the day; it's a nightmare.

It used to be a simple matter of getting from point A to point B. But now, for many commuters, it's a daily battle. The traffic is so bad that it's almost impossible to get to work on time. The stress is so high that it's affecting their health. The cost of commuting is so high that it's draining their wallets. The time it takes to get to work is so long that it's taking away their lives. The commute is no longer just a part of the day; it's a nightmare.
